Suraksha Diagnostic Pvt Ltd have now partnered with Cluegenix, a San Francisco based Biotech Company led by Dr Joydeep Mukherjee. The main focus of this collaboration is to make translational genomics technologies accessible to the Indian population.

A press meet was organized to announce this collaboration.

The diagnostic centre has also come up with Aptio automation which is a robotic track made to suit the expanding need of the people. The track is AI enabled and free from human interference.

This machine during emergency can give reports in less than a minute. The entire system is One Flow One Touch. The track can do Biochemistry and Haematology at the same time.

Cancer is the biggest problem in today's times. The only way to fight this disease is by Molecular Biology. The science of Genomics has the answer to this issue. With the help of the collaboration, Indian protocols for these diseases can be found.

With such steps taken up by Suraksha, healthcare in Eastern India will be upgraded to a great extent.
